

FASTER COMMUNICATIONS. FASTER RESPONSE.

In an emergency response situation, speed matters. The Motorola Solutions Military Command Post suite is an integrated solution that combines JITC-certified NG9-1-1, conferencing, and unified communications software into a single interface. It helps you establish a command structure to control the flow of inbound and outbound communications with greater speed, flexibility, and reach across radios, phones, desktops, mobile devices, and mass notification systems.

When every second counts, Motorola Solutions Military Command Post suite helps you communicate and operationalize information faster so you can take decisive action in less time.

Situation: An emergency has occurred on the flight line. When an Air-crew declares an In-Flight Emergency (IFE), a distress call is routed to the Motorola Solutions Military Command Post suite.

Response: Motorola Solutions Military Command Post suite immediately takes action. Using a pre-built scenario customized to the base's unique action plans, it automatically opens a conference bridge and sends notifications to all relevant stakeholders.

The wing commander, MSG commander, fire and medical response, police, civil engineering, and the public information office all receive pre-recorded messages asking them to immediately meet on a conference call. With one tap on their device, they instantly join the bridge. Information such as aircraft location and flight path is easily shared among the group allowing first responders to arrive at the scene faster.

Base personnel, first responders, and third parties across the installation, community, and beyond, can be easily connected into ad-hoc talk groups using radios or mobile devices. Commanders have the ability to establish and execute a highly agile command structure. Now, they can immediately disseminate the right information to the right talk groups. The Motorola Solutions Military Command Post can also trigger siren alerts on an installation's Giant Voice system.

Once the incident is resolved, Motorola Solutions Military Command Post sends an immediate "all clear" alert or further instructions.
